

Describing the Relationship Between Two Events

clauses with time adverbials

Page 177

In this lesson, we study one way of showing the relationship between two events.

The two events are described by separate clauses, one of which contains a time adverbial to show the relationship between the two events.

For example, here are two events:

Event 1: Mark cooked dinner.

Event 2: Susan came home.

The relationship between these two events can be described by linking them with a time adverbial.

For example: Mark cooked dinner when Susan came home.

Mark cooked dinner before Susan came home.

Mark cooked dinner after Susan came home.

The tenses of the verbs sometimes change depending on the time adverbial used.

For example: Mark was cooking dinner until Susan came home.

Mark was cooking dinner while Susan was coming home.

Mark was cooking dinner as Susan was coming home.

Sometimes, the time adverbial comes before both clauses:

While Mark was cooking dinner, Susan was coming home.

As Mark was cooking dinner, Susan was coming home.
